Community Education Program Manager News

It has been a pleasure and a privilege to work with your wonderful children this year! I speak for all Kidstop staff when I tell you that we are richer because of the great questions and answers, fun and challenges that your children bring into our lives every single day. Our 2008-2009 Kidstop experiences soon will give way to summer and then another school year. There is an African proverb that says, "No sun sets without its histories." As we count the weeks and days until summer, it is good to think about the stories and history of our year together. I encourage you to ask your children what has been the greatest challenge in Kidstop this year and what has been the very best. I invite you to make May the month of memories—a month when you and your child share tales of adventure and fun and school and Kidstop!
