Habitat and Food

Most wild Parakeets live in the trees or the woods. If you have a Parakeet as a pet it should live in a cage. These birds are non-migratory. They like to eat seeds and fruit. They have treats for pet Parakeets called Spray Millet. They love it!

Young

The eggs are almost all white and the female usually lays about 5-6 eggs at a time. The best time for the female to lay her eggs is in the spring so the babies can grow up in the warm weather. They hatch in 18-20 days. The parents stay with the babies all their life. They play with the babies a lot.

Description

Parakeets have very bright feathers. They can have colors like red, green, blue, orange, yellow or purple. They use these colors for camouflage. The skin above the beak for a female is brownish and the skin above the beak for a male is bluish. Tails can be long and pointed or short and square. They are about 12 in. long when an adult.

Now that I have informed you of the parakeets personalities. You can be a parakeet expert! This bird is a very funny bird. Can you believe all the interesting facts about them? I really enjoy the fact that they like healthy foods like fruit. One thing I learned is that people train parakeets to do tricks.
