

MADISON T.

Atlantic Puffin

Feb. 22
2008

Introduction

What is another name for the Atlantic Puffin? Well I can tell you that it actually has two names it is the clown of the sea and the sea parrot because of its colorful bill. It has very close relatives like the Rhinoceros Auklet. And the purpose is to inform you about the Atlantic puffin.

Habitat and Food

The Atlantic Puffin lives in northern Maine and Quebec Canada. It eats sand eels, fish, and larval fish. And its relative the Rhinoceros Auklet eats the same thing about. And the other relative the Horned Puffin eats about the same thing.

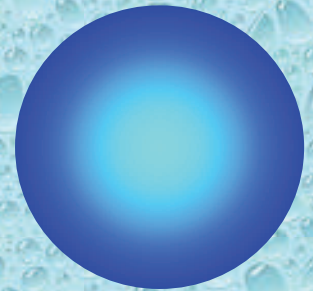

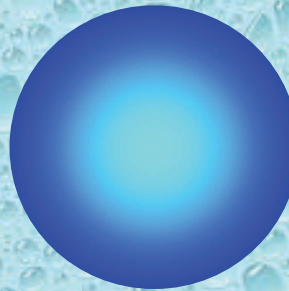

Description

The color of my bird is black, orange, and white. Its eggs are creamy color and some are white. And the regular bird is about 11 inches tall. And it lives about 35 years.

Young

When the baby grows up it is about 3 inches tall. And when the mom gets food the dad sits on the eggs to keep them warm. The mom brings fish for the baby to eat. And then it takes about 30-35 days to hatch.

<http://images.google.com/images?q=Atlantic+Puffin&gbv=2&hl=en&start=20&sa=N&ndsp=20>

<http://images.google.com/images?hl=en&q=Atlantic+Puffin&btnG=Search+Images&gbv=2>

Conclusion

The one thing I learned about the Atlantic Puffin is that its relatives eat most of the same thing. And then the other thing I learned was that its baby's are 3 inches tall when they come out of the shell. I love this bird because it is so cute and soft and it eats the coolest things. I guess that all I have to say for now and I hope you like my project and thanks for reading.

<http://images.google.com/images?q=Atlantic+Puffin&gbv=2&ndsp=20&hl=en&start=180&sa=N>

<http://images.google.com/images?hl=en&q=Atlantic+Puffin&btnG=Search+Images&gbv=2>